Hills welcomes Andrew Pedrazzini OAM as Chief Digital Officer to drive company's new technology development phase

6 December 2023: Hospital and aged care technology provider Hills Health has appointed long-time NSW Health digital transformation leader Andrew Pedrazzini OAM as its Chief Digital Officer as the company commences an ambitious phase of technology development.

Mr Pedrazzini's years as a changemaker in the NSW public health sector, including with eHealth NSW as Director of the Infrastructure Office, Director of Digital Health facilities and the Director of ICT Service Commissioning, brings considerable expertise to Hills' plans to upgrade and expand its portfolio of platforms, products and services.

The appointment of Mr Pedrazzini to the Hills leadership team – also in the role of Executive Director of Strategy, Products and Partners – is a key early move under the company's new ownership as an affiliated company of Stellar Vision.

"Bold plans require experienced hands, and Andrew's expertise in ushering in substantial digital transformation projects will drive our plans for an interconnected, state-of-the-art ecosystem of health and aged care technologies," Hills' CEO Brendan McCarthy said.

"We are leveraging our reach throughout more than 200 hospitals and 300 residential aged care facilities to reimagine the digital experience for those who use our platforms – from clinical staff to patients – and I know Andrew will bring the vision to life."

Hills' plans focus on the development of a fully integrated Health Digital Experience Platform that will extend from health facilities, connecting them and the community.

"I am really excited to be a part of a new chapter for one of Australia's iconic companies, which will see us working with customers to help them empower their patients, residents and home care recipients by placing them at the centre of their care journeys," Mr Pedrazzini said.

"At a time of exceptional pressure on our health system, we are determined to ensure the best possible care outcomes can be delivered in the most effective and efficient ways."

About Hills Health – A proudly Australian-owned company, Hills Health develops, distributes, implements and manages integrated health technology solutions for homes, hospitals, aged care facilities and other health settings across Australia and New Zealand.
